In the last six months 600 bales of Sumatra tobacco, valued at over $125,-000, and dutiable at $1 per pound, have been entered at the port of San Francisco by the payment of but 35c per pound duty. Uruguay, like Paraguay, is a great cattle and sheep country. Her $50,000 people and 72,000 square miles are meat producing. The great problem is how to dispose of the surplus. Large quantities of frozen meat are exported. Cattle are killed for their hides and tallow. The annual product of wool is 70,000,000 pounds, valued at $18,000,000. The soil s rich, and such of it as is cultivated produces the same crops that grow in the United States. Within the last four years a trade has been developing beween the United States and Uruguay. This country takes from Uruguay bones and bone-ash, cow hides and horse hair, and sells to Uruguay lumber, kerosene, cotton gossis and machinery. The foreign trade of Uruguay amounts to $63,-000,000 a year. The trade with this country is $3,000,000, and with other countries, $60,000,000.
